The Stalker

In the devil's nostrils is the scent of sin
He knows the place where you'll give in Hot on your trail, nose to the ground;
He'll track you down
You will be found

His sense of smell is strong, you see.
Wherever you go, wherever you flee
The stalker is moving with his sense of smell
His only goal is to take you to hell

Every time you sin your location is made clear
To the demons of hell—they will draw near
But good news, my friend, I have this day to offer to all
Who desire not to be the devil's prey

There came from heaven many years ago,
God's only son to save your soul
He saw the devil hot on your trail
He knew His plans would take you to hell
There was only one way to destroy the scent
His death on Calvary your salvation would win

He came to earth to shed His blood for you
There's nothing more that you can do
You must believe on him, Jesus Christ, God's only Son
Now the scene is different to the Stalking One

Hot on your trail
Sinner doomed to die
Devil sniffs on--with Him You'll fry
His nose in the dirt follows you along

But what have we here,
The scent is not as strong
Something messed up this obvious trail
It's not the one he knew so well

"Where's the Sinner?" in frustration he frowns
I was about to move in and take him down
About that time
Down on the ground
The smell of blood his nose has found
The blood is strong
The scent is new
Somehow, he knows his stalking is through

With his nose he comes to the nail scarred feet
Of the one who obtained his certain defeat
His eyes lift up to his spear pierced side
Then onto his hands where he was crucified

The Lord opens his mouth and he bellows out the news
"DEVIL YOU'VE LOST—THE HUNT IS THROUGH"

The scent of sin now you can't smell
My blood it covers you
Know it well

So rejoice my child
For through God's own son
The stalker has lost,
Your salvation is Won
